Community Snapshot: East Garfield Park

RUSH UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER

Adopted on June 8, 2016
Early in the 20th century, East Garfield Park was a neighborhood where thriving industry and well-kept single-family homes existed side by side — but the Great Depression and two world wars took their toll, with businesses closing and many homes converting to boardinghouses and apartments that grew overcrowded. When African Americans began to move into this community four miles west of the Loop in the 1950s, its racial makeup changed quickly as white residents and business owners hostile to the changes left; between 1950 and 2000, East Garfield Park lost more than two-thirds of its population.

At the same time, residents have come together to serve each other and work for economic development. In the 1960s, the Fifth City Human Development Project, the East Garfield Park Union to End Slums and the East Garfield Park Cooperative were just a few of the organizations that formed. Since 1947, Marillac House has provided important services such as child care, education and recreation programs and senior services. And Breakthrough Ministries offers programs that serve more than 700 neighborhood youth, as well as transitional housing for the homeless and a food pantry that serves more than 70,000 meals each year.

I know that every area has its moments, but there’s a lot of up-and-coming in this area. The conservatory, I mean that area is just really booming... And they are really building over there in that area. A lot of people are coming back from the suburbs.

I would like for our schools to get the dollars that other schools get so that they can make improvements. I would like to see teachers...who are committed to really helping these children to get a decent education so that they can do something different.
